“ Aunt Teeny must be a happy soul to be reunited with Uncle Buford and their infant son. Her gentle spirit has returned to her Savior. No doubt, she is missing those loved ones who are still here but enjoying the complay of the family members who have gone before. What a sweet reunion! Those folks must be celebrating and sharing memories of life, love, and family devotion.

I recall spending a number of childhood Sunday afternoons visiting in their back yard, walking through the rows of their plentiful gardens overflowing with colorful vegetables and flowers, taking home bags filled with "extras", her splendid homecooked meals, the rows of canned vegetables, and her gracious hospitality-- complete with bright smile, clear eyes and easy laugh.

Aunt Christine certainly fulfilled the purpose of her life in the loving legacy she and Uncle Buford created for their family. Hard-working, practical, and filled with Light, she blessed those whom she loved. I hope you celebrate her life with sweet memories and the assurance that she is happy.
