“ Kim, all our hearts are heavy for you and your family. Your trials are over and your faith is strong. Your mom has her wings and is already watching you from above. She is still with you in your heart. You will feel it when she is around and you will know that she is at peace by the comfort you will soon feel once the sadness is over. We are thinking of you daily. Your tears will turn to smiles when you start to remember how wonderful she was and all the love she had for you. God took her home so she will no longer feel any pain only joy. May you all be comforted in the days to come.
