Jennifer made so many friends that she felt were as close as family. The outpouring of love from her friends has been overwhelming and much appreciated and shows what kind of person she was.

Borrowing words from Ashley Sanders: "She was a kind person. She was gregarious. She was funny. She was genuine. And she was my friend. And even though I know it's selfish - because I know she gave this life every ounce of herself she had to give and there just wasn't anything left - I miss her spirit so very much, this world will never be the same."

Ardmore Chapel Funeral Home is assisting the family with arrangements.
