“ This breaks my heart so bad for his grandparents and kids! I had just recently reconnected with scotty(he dated my sister in high school so he’s known me since I was around 10) and he would give you the shirt from his back if you needed it. Scotty I pray you are finally at peace and that you are free from the demons you faced daily! Love you ole friend! Jennifer smith Montgomery’s ❤️

“ I found out this evening of Scotty’s passing. I don’t remember ever being so full of grief and sadness in my life. Scotty and I drove a million miles together to rodeos, were roommates in college and were best men in each others weddings. We were like brothers for many years. For the past several years, we hadn’t talked and I knew he had struggled. I don’t know alot about that but I know that at one point on my life he was my most trusted friend; the friend who would be there no matter what. We as humans have a desire to judge others and their situations. But the truth is that there is but 1 judge, and His vote is the only one that counts. He knows our hearts better than we do. He knows the pain that we suffer despite our attempts to cover them. His mercy and love are endless. Knowing this gives me the peace that my dear friend is no longer suffering. I pray that the peace of Christ be with all those who are affected by his passing.

Rest in peace brother!
