“ This is so surreal. I remember the first time I met you. You were 15 and I was 14. You got out of this white suv with your green shirt, jeans and huge diamond earrings. 😭😭 You were coming to Jaquelines to meet another girl, but for some reason we were drawn to each other. Stephen you were not only my first real boyfriend. but my first real love. I got 2 special years with you. From stealing the Jimmy and sneaking out and our families going to Florida together. I remember I laid my scooter down in the sand and you laughed at me so hard along with people on the strip. Of course you helped me up and made sure I was okay because you were also a caring amazing person. I will never forget that laugh though. How funny you were, random and always how much I loved you. I'm so glad we never lost touch. I do believe people come into your lives at certain points to teach you things and you taught me how to live and love. You took a big piece with you and I will always love you! RIP. I will never forget you ❤️🌻

“ Stephen you were and always will be my world. I will miss you the rest of my days and my heart will break for you as long as I am on this earth. I was always afraid to die and leave you here alone but now I welcome it. The only thing that holds me back now is Luke. He needs me and so I need to be here for him., but I long to see your face again and for one of your hugs. You gave the best hugs. I was always proud to call you my son. You will always be my son even if you're not here. I love you my sweet boy and miss you so very much... 💔💔💔
